HWABELLE BOTANICALS

Pressing Tulips and Small Wildflowers

A thoughtful guide to arranging tulips and delicate garden flowers in the Hwabelle press.

Keep the color. Keep the season.

TULIP EDITION

A simple garden rhythm

Tulips carry their own shape and color. Small wildflowers bring texture around them. This edition focuses on clean separation, gentle flattening, and enough space for every specimen to remain legible after drying.

01

PICK

Choose dry, healthy stems.

02

PREPARE

Separate flowers and remove bulk.

03

PRESS

Arrange flat and close the layers.

04

REVEAL

Open slowly and preserve the details.

THE GARDEN PALETTE

Coral tulip | Golden tulip | Blush tulip | Small wildflowers | Cream paper | Clear acrylic

01 PICK

Choose your tulips

HOW TO

Select three fresh tulips with clean color and firm petals. Add a small amount of delicate wildflower material for contrast. Keep stems separate while you inspect each flower.

CRAFT NOTE Choose a modest selection and leave the rest of the garden growing.

Separate every stem

HOW TO

Lay the tulips and small wildflowers on a clean surface. Keep one flower on one stem, remove bulky leaves, and separate each wildflower sprig so it can lie flat.

CRAFT NOTE A clear stem structure prevents confusing overlaps in the finished composition.

Trim each stem cleanly

HOW TO

Trim one tulip stem at a time and keep the three flowers separate. Remove only bulky leaves or stem sections that would prevent a flat stack.

CRAFT NOTE One flower per stem keeps the final arrangement readable and prevents hidden overlaps.

Flatten the tulip shape

HOW TO

Gently open the tulip petals just enough to create a flatter profile. Keep leaves and small wildflowers in their own spaces.

CRAFT NOTE Tulips are naturally deeper than tiny wildflowers. A flatter profile makes the layers more even.

Arrange the first layer

HOW TO

Place the prepared tulips and small wildflowers on a clean blotting sheet. Leave a little breathing room around every bloom and keep stems from crossing.

CRAFT NOTE The arrangement is easier to preserve when each piece has its own surface area.

Cover the arrangement

HOW TO

Lower the cover sheet smoothly over the flowers. Align the four corner bolts before adding the four black knobs, and keep the plate level as it comes down.

CRAFT NOTE A smooth cover protects the petals from shifting as the press closes.

Let the layers settle

HOW TO

Tighten the four knobs gradually from corner to corner, then keep the assembled press flat in a dry indoor place with gentle, indirect light.

CRAFT NOTE Readiness is a texture check. The botanicals should feel dry and papery before removal.

04 REVEAL

Open the finished press

HOW TO

Loosen the knobs and lift the plate carefully. Peel the paper back slowly. Look for the fine tulip veins, petal edges, and small wildflower centers before moving the pieces.

CRAFT NOTE Support thin petals from underneath with a card or tweezers.

Turn the season into art

HOW TO

Use the finished tulips as the main shape in a card, frame, bookmark, or small botanical composition. Place the tiny wildflowers around them as texture and rhythm.

CRAFT NOTE Keep finished work flat, dry, and out of direct sun so the colors have a better chance to last.
